Presenter Biographies

Jonathan Miller
Jonathan Miller is the owner of In-Step Mobility, a leading company in the development of advanced walking aids to increase independence and eliminate falls among those with neurological conditions. In-Step Mobility was established in 1992 as a result of Jonathan seeing his mother requiring a better and sturdier walker for her condition. Innovative products developed include the U-Step Neuro Walker series and laser cueing products for Parkinson's freezing.

Mitch Strobin
Mitch Strobin is the VP, Medical Practice Relations at In-Step Mobility where he works with and educates neurologists and physical / occupational therapists on the benefits of the U-Step Neuro Walker series and laser cueing products for their patient population. Prior to In-Step Mobility, Strobin worked as a marketing and business development consultant for several early-stage healthcare companies. Strobin also worked in the telecom industry with both start-up and large, international companies in various marketing and corporate strategy roles.
